

Zach Fox
Assistant Clubhouse Manager
Mount Vernon Country Club

Zach began his career in Club Management while attending George Mason University in Fairfax, Virginia. During his studies, he completed an internship at Washington Golf & Country Club. After graduating with a degree in Hospitality Management, he took on the role of Dining Services Manager at Mount Vernon Country Club and was quickly promoted to Assistant Clubhouse Manager. Over the past 5 years, Zach has continued to assist in the management of daily club operations as well as head the seasonal pool operation. During his tenure he has coordinated Mount Vernon Country Club's Summer Internship Program, hiring students from numerous universities across the region, to grow the future leadership of Club Management.

In his free time, Zach enjoys cooking, traveling, and spending time with family and friends. Zach's parents are both retired government employees and he has an older brother who practices medicine in the Air Force.

Zach has most recently served on the National Capital Chapter's Student Development Committee. He continues to attend CMAA's Business Management Institute programs as he works towards obtaining the designation of a Certified Club Manager.
